

Generational Trauma

Working with youth can be challenging given the generational patterns of trauma, poverty, incarceration, etc. So, it's essential for providers to understand generational trauma and how to work with youth from a generational perspective. Without this perspective, we can have unrealistic expectations for youth and their families and encounter barriers to engagement. Providers will learn strategies to support youth with generational patterns of trauma within their families.

Many youth, especially foster care and juvenile justice youth, come from generational cycles of trauma and oppression. So, it's necessary for providers to understand these generational patterns to effectively partner with these youth and their families.

Target Audience

Psychologists      Social Workers      Counselors
Therapists          Psychiatrists      Nurses
Course level: Intermediate

Learning Objectives

At the end of this seminar, participants will be able to:

1. Define generational trauma.
2. Identify at least one reason a family member may not acknowledge a youth's trauma.
3. Describe the unintended consequences when providers only serve the youth and not the family as a whole.
4. Describe a multigenerational approach.
5. Identify at least one health disparity related to generational trauma.

Our seminars are available in two formats. The first is a live, interactive webinar. You can ask questions of our presenters, either by typing them or speaking into a microphone. If the webinar time is not convenient for you, you can purchase the Home Study version. It is a recorded version of the webinar. You will have to pass a test to earn CE's for both the live webinar and the Home Study version.

Continuing Education Credit

To earn CE's, you must attend the entire webinar. No partial credit is available. For both the webinar and the home study version, you will have to pass a post-test with 80% correct and complete a seminar evaluation to earn the certificate. You can take the test up to three times. Participants will earn 4 CE's for attending once they have completed these requirements.

The Presenter

Nicole Klasey is a clinical psychologist who has worked with trauma survivors for 14 years. She currently consults with agencies on trauma-informed care, programming for commercially sexually exploited youth, vicarious trauma, and leadership development. Nicole has been training multidisciplinary audiences on trauma-related topics since 2015 and provides guest lectures at local universities on human trafficking. She has developed several of the training curriculums that are being utilized in Los Angeles County and throughout California to better equip social service providers on working with commercially sexually exploited youth. She has been an expert witness on commercial sexual exploitation and trauma in court. She has authored two books on commercial sexual exploitation and authored prevention and intervention curriculums for the population. In 2018, Nicole was awarded the State of California Senate Certificate of Recognition by Senator Joel Anderson.
