

The Components and Process of Clinical Supervision

In this seminar, Dr. Saffer examines the purpose of clinical supervision, including the components and processes that are important for effective supervision. Participants are encouraged to consider different models and methods as they develop an approach to clinical supervision. In addition, strategies are discussed regarding effectively dealing with some of the challenges that are inherent in the supervisory process. This seminar is designed to provide participants with a thoughtful approach to the supervision process and to encourage the development of competence in this area.

Target Audience

This seminar is for intermediate level clinicians

Learning Objectives

At the end of this seminar, participants will be able to:

1. Define competency and the role of supervision in the development of competency
2. Identify how to develop a personal model of supervision
3. Identify skills that increase the effectiveness of supervision
4. Identify the necessary components of a supervision file.
5. Increase awareness of the supervisor's dynamics that influence the supervision process.

Our seminars are available in two formats. The first is a live, interactive webinar. You can ask questions of our presenters, either by typing them or speaking into a microphone. If the webinar time is not convenient for you, you can purchase the Home Study version. It is a recorded version of the webinar. You will have to pass a test to earn CE's for both the live webinar and the Home Study version.
